ESCP Europe's Advanced Master in Finance ranks 2nd worldwide in Financial Times rankings

The ESCP Europe Advanced Master in Finance has risen to 2nd position in the Financial Times annual global rankings.

Taught in French and English at the ESCP Europe Paris and London campuses, the programme is number 1 in the UK and 2 in France. This reaffirms its position as the best finance course.

The programme ranks 1st worldwide for its career progression, international experience and careers service.

The Advanced Master also achieved an impressive 92% in its 'aims achieved'.

This ranking recognises the programme's international position, but also the technical and professional dimensions that help establish its cutting-edge reputation.

With 30 years of experience, the Advanced Master in Finance programme is designed for positions in Investment Banking, both in Corporate Finance and in Capital Markets. It has adapted to changes and market expectations by developing strong links with financial industry and leveraging a global network of dynamic Alumni.

The programme's Academic Director, Pr Philippe Thomas, said: "Our Alumni community has a strong involvement in keeping the course relevant. They are very active in our Advisory Board, and work closely with our Faculty to ensure high course quality teaching and careful selection criteria for students."

ESCP Europe's Dean, Dr Frank Bournois, said: "This ESCP Europe Advanced Master is a programme striving for and achieving academic and professional excellence. It enjoys the unique positioning of campuses in two countries, which allows students to grasp, in addition to the technical aspects of the trade, the individual characteristics of two very different marketplaces. The presence in London, the financial centre of the world also makes the programme attractive to students from around the globe."
